

For my Presentation I chose the MixItUp plugin. This plugin is for galleries and for sorting through items in an artful way. The reason I chose this particular plugin was simple, it looked like a great way to showcase items and a creative way for users to sort and filter through galleries.

I created a little tab gallery with some different backgrounds and each was numbered (to show ascending and descending sorting). Then I created buttons that would activate the specific filter and then styled everything to look nice. In order to use the animation you just needed to put the proper classes and data-sort attributes and you were good to go.

The reason I created the page that I did was to mimic a real situation that I might use this plugin for, to test how quick it would be to implement and to see the different effects in action using my own files.

By,
David S. Gall